

A NEW TEAM

A new team on the Wycombe Wanderers bench. Manager Andy Williams (centre) is flanked by Howard Wells, who is Brian Lee's assistant at Bisham Abbey, and physiotherapist Ken Reed, who as a Berkshire fireman recently received the Queen's Commendation for bravery.

Dylan Evans crosses the ball into the Minehead penalty area during the first half on Saturday.

Clean bill of health

WYCOMBE Wanderers manager Andy Williams has named a clean bill of health for tonight's (Tuesday) final pre-season friendly with Cheltenham of the Southern League at Loakes Park.

That means Terry Scott can be considered for selection after recovering from the illness which kept him out of Saturday's game against Minehead. Indeed all the players are available with the exception of former Altrincham defender Steve Hardwick who is still on holiday.

Mr Williams, who has expressed himself satisfied with the team performances so far, will be keen to give Howard Kennedy and Mick Hollfield another game as both have failed to reach peak fitness after being on holiday. Roth faded noticeably in the second half of Saturday's game.

This is the manager's last chance to sort his side out for the opening League game against Dagenham who went down 2-1 to Enfield on Saturday in a special challenge match between the league champions and cup holders.

YOUTH'S HOME DRAW

The Wycombe Youth team who have been taking part in trials and training sessions since the beginning of July, have been drawn at home to Leytonstone in the Preliminary Round of the FA Youth Cup.

The team will again be managed by Mr Vernon Roberts and there are six players from last year's squad who are still eligible to play this season. It will again be Wycombe Youth represented largely by Flackwell Heath Minors.

Although none of the squad are currently playing for the Minors seven of them are ex-Minor players from Flackwell.
